A big giant has a big house with a big garden.

My garden is beautiful!

One day the giant visits a friend.
His friend lives very far away.

Some children go in the giant's garden.

Look at that beautiful garden!

Yes! Let's go and play!

But the giant comes back home.
He sees the children in his garden.

Hey, you! Go away!

The giant is very angry.

This is my garden! Get out!

The giant builds a big wall.

Now you can't come
in my garden,
naughty children!

Then, the giant makes a big sign.
The children are very sad.

Now the garden is empty.
One day a flower pops up and looks around.

Where are the children?

The flower sees the sign.

The giant is selfish. I don't want to be in his garden. I'm going back to sleep!

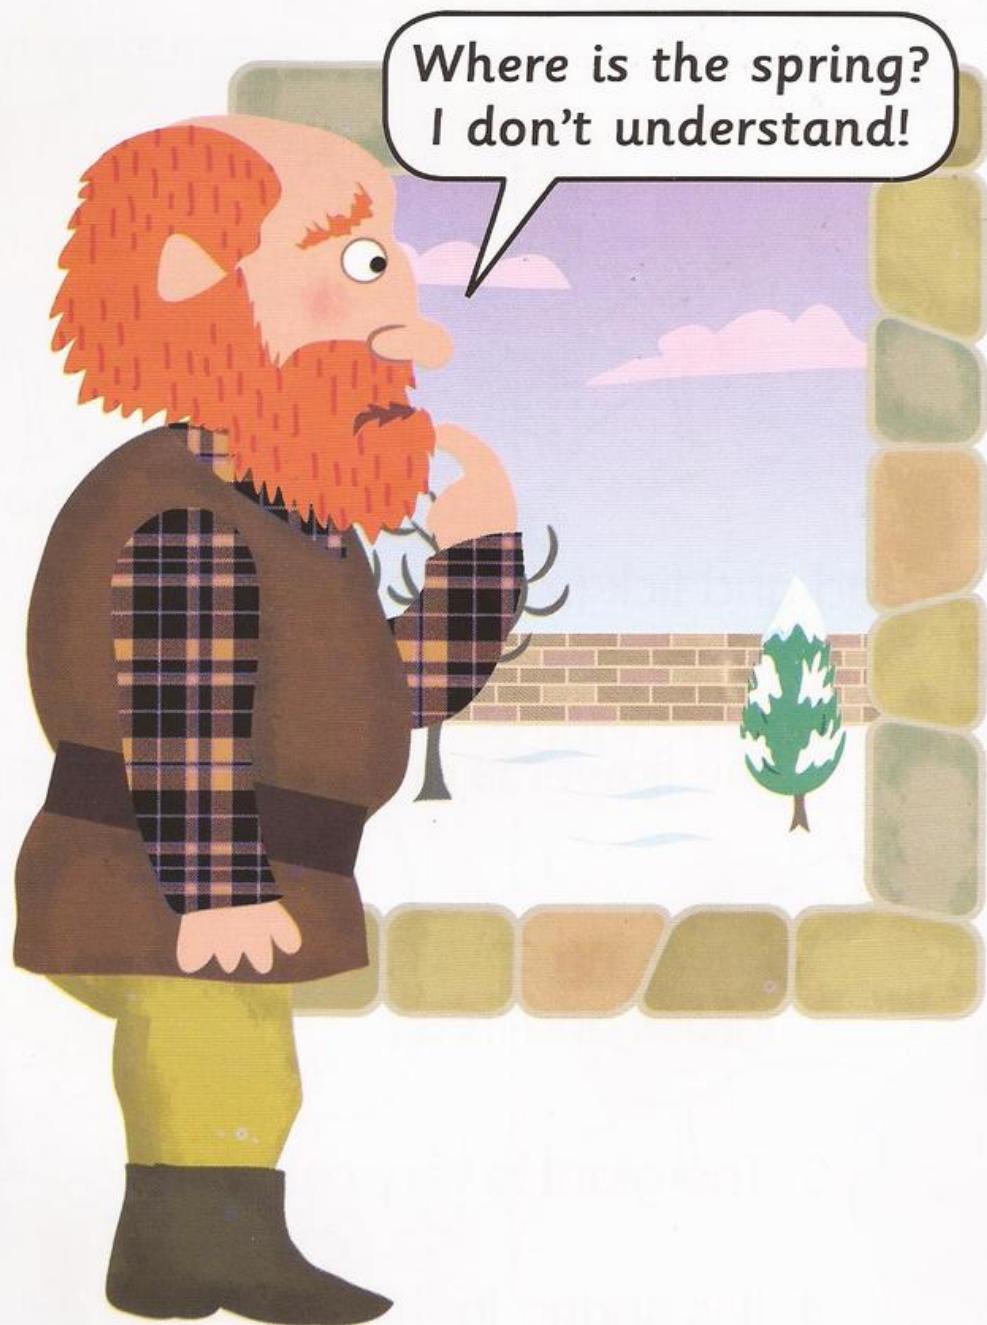

It's winter now. The snow comes.
It covers the grass and trees.

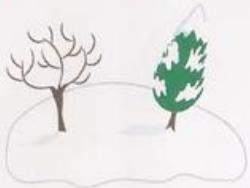

The wind and the snow like the giant's garden very much. They decide to stay.

Spring, summer and autumn come and go, but not in the giant's garden.

giant's garden.

One day, the children make a hole in the wall and go into the garden.

Look! The snow is leaving!
The flowers are back!

Let's climb the trees!

The giant hears the birds sing.
He goes to the window.

Ah! The spring is back! My garden is beautiful again!

The giant sees the children. Now he understands.

The spring doesn't come here because I'm selfish.

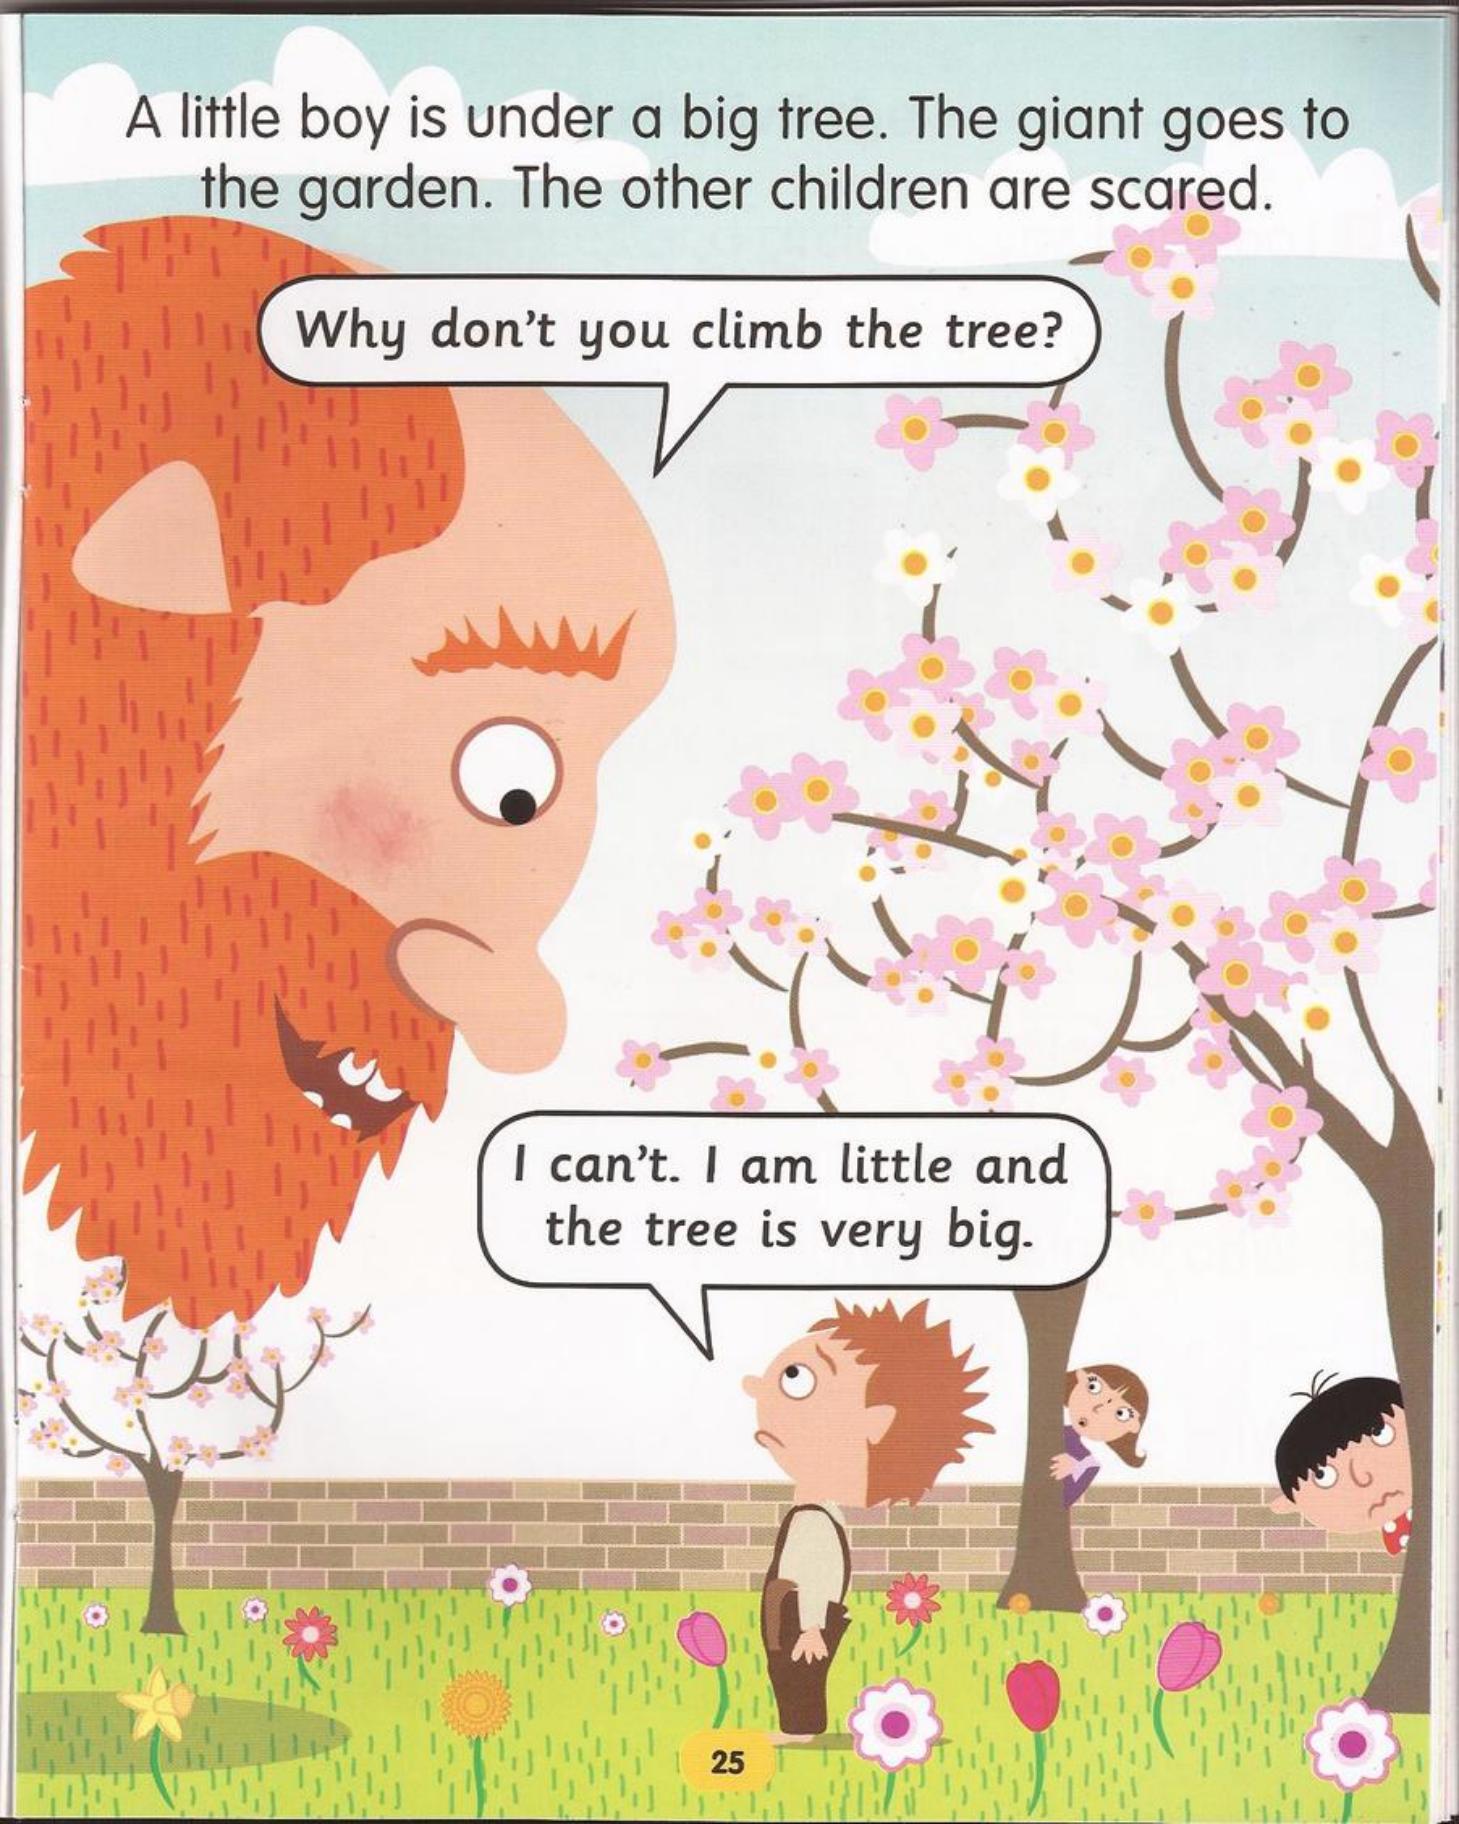

A little boy is under a big tree. The giant goes to the garden. The other children are scared.

Why don't you climb the tree?

I can't. I am little and the tree is very big.

Here, let me help you.

The little boy is in the tree now and he is happy.
He kisses the giant.

A colorful illustration of a giant and a boy. On the left, a large orange giant with a wide, toothy grin and a tuft of red hair on his head is looking towards the right. He has two small horns on his forehead and a patterned plaid skirt. A small brown boy with spiky hair is perched on a branch of a tree with pink flowers, facing the giant. A speech bubble originates from the boy's mouth, containing the text.

Thank you, giant.
You are very kind.

The other children are happy, too.
They are not scared now.

Come here, children.
I want to talk to you.

The giant takes down the sign.

You can play here every day. It's your garden now.

3 Help the giant go to the little boy. How many flowers are there on his way?

The garden is a happy place again.
The sun is shining, the birds are singing and the giant is playing with the children.

There are many flowers
here, but do you know why
my garden is so beautiful?
Because the children are here!

The Selfish Giant

I am a giant
A big, big giant.
This is my garden
Get out! Get out!

We are children
Little children.
We want to play
Oh please! Oh please!

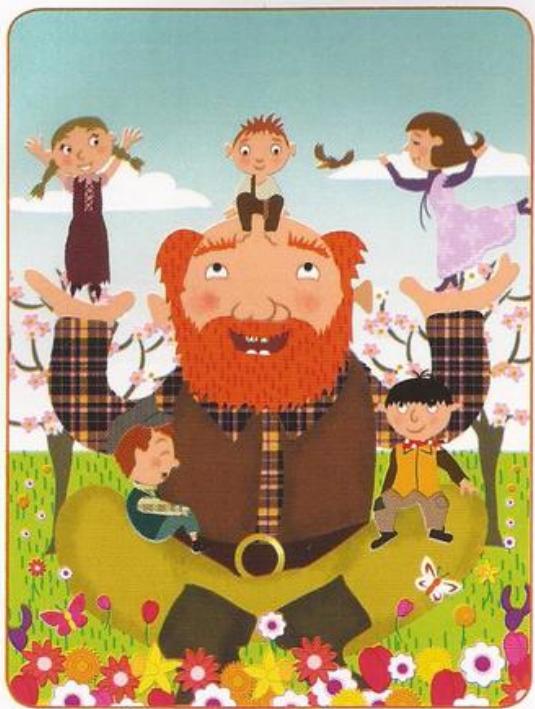

This is your garden
Come in! Come in!
Come here to play
Every day!

Thank you giant
It's alright.
You're not selfish
You are kind.
